

LE Street Survival/Tactical Medicine - Train the Trainer

October 5-7, 2016
Douglasville, Georgia

This course is a Train the Trainer program for sworn law enforcement officers and instructors serving in or anticipating a training role.

Based on TCCC Concepts this course provides the non-medical first responder the skills necessary to provide critical life saving intervention until EMS arrives. The student will complete a tactical medicine course integrated with instructor development training. This course builds upon the fundamentals of first aid and emergency care and introduces the latest concepts in emergency treatment. Upon successful completion the instructor will have the knowledge, tools, and resources to provide Tactical Medicine training to other law enforcement personnel within their agency or department.

Topics include: Advanced Airway Management, hemorrhage control including combat gauze and tourniquets, and recognition and treatment of shock. The Instructor Candidate will learn instructional techniques to maximize student learning, learn to present skill building sessions and scenarios, and lead fellow students through learning exercises and skill stations.

Training provided in this course is beneficial to all law enforcement personnel involved in community policing, Active Shooter Response, school resource officers, firearms instructors and other high risk situations.
